SAILOR SHOTS MAN WHO INSULTS FLAG

CHICAGO, May 7.—Disrespect for the American flag and a show of resentment toward the thousands who participated in a Victory loan pageant here last night may cost George Goddard his life. He was shot down by a sailor of the United States navy when he did not stand and remove his hat while the band was playing "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Goddard had a seat of vantage in the open amphitheater. When he failed to stand he was the most conspicuous figure among the throng. When he fell at the report of the "sailor's" gun the crowd applauded.

When Goddard failed to respond to the first strains of the national anthem Samuel Hagerman, sailor in the guard of honor, asked him to get up.

"What for?" demanded Goddard. Hagerman touched him with his bayonet.

"Get up. Off with your hat," Goddard muttered, and drew a pistol.

Hagerman stepped back a pace and slipped a cartridge into his gun. Goddard started away. As the last notes of the anthem sounded the sailor commanded him to halt. Then he fired into the air.

Goddard paid no attention. The sailor fired three times. Goddard fell wounded. Each shot had found its mark.

When he was searched, an automatic pistol, in addition to the one he had drawn, was found. Another pistol and fifty cartridges were found in a bag he carried. He said he was a linemith, out of work.

Papers showed he had been at Vancouver and Seattle, and it was believed by the authorities he had come here for the I. W. W. convention.

MARSHALL WOULD BAR ALIENS.
FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., May 7.—Vice President Thomas R. Marshall, speaking here, declared that if he had his way, the doors of America would be closed to immigration for some time to come. Any foreigner, he added, who is thrown out of the melting pot of America and does not melt, should be taken out and sent away.

2,000 VETERANS TO ATTEND CONVENTION

ST. LOUIS, May 7.—Organizers of the American Legion went into executive session here today to prepare final details for the caucus of the legion beginning tomorrow.

Lieut. Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Lieut. Col. Bennett Clark, son of Congressman Champ Clark; Lieut. Col. Eric Fisher Wood, winner of the Croix de Guerre, and a number of service men attended the first session of the legion. Matters to come before the caucus were discussed. The meeting took up representation and sought means to prevent the organization from becoming partisan during the caucus.

Colonel Roosevelt and others, in statements after the meeting, declared politics would play no part. They said the legion would be made up mostly of enlisted men.

Delegates from all sections of the United States began arriving today. Estimates are that more than 2,000 veterans will attend. The War Camp Community Service will have charge of entertainments.

BOOKBINDERS' LOCAL UNION ELECTS ITS NEW OFFICERS

Officers of the Bookbinders' Local Union, I. B. O. B., were elected at a meeting in Typographical Temple last night. Approximately four hundred members of the organization were present.

Officers chosen were: Charles F. Miller, president; Otto W. Herrman, vice president; H. F. Oehler, recording secretary; Robert D. Barrett, financial secretary; William B. Hill, treasurer; William F. Ryan, inspector; George E. Furnage, guide; William J. Hope, statistician.

George B. Hedges, C. E. Shepherd, Edward Fuhrman, Ernest R. Taylor, and John H. Raines compose the new executive board. On the finance committee are Joseph D. Mitchell, E. A. Strudley, and E. H. Paudert.

Two thousand dollars' worth of Victory bonds were sold following a four-minute talk by Thomas D. Gannaway. A demand for 90 cents per hour for Government bookbinders, instead of 60 cents, the present rate, was urged at the meeting.

SAYS WAR CHANGED STATUS OF WOMEN IN ARGENTINA

The wonderful changes wrought in South American countries with the advent of war and the creation of modern industrial conditions were described by John Barrett, director of the Pan-American Union, in an address before the Business Women's Council at Wesley Chapel last night.

"Business women of Argentina have the same problems to contend with as the business women of Washington, but without the guide of experience," said Mr. Barrett. "Before the war women were never seen alone on the street and were ostracized by society when they began to support themselves. Their worth is now being appreciated."

The work of the Y. W. C. A. in South America was described by Miss Heloise Brainerd, second vice president of the council. A vote to send a message of friendship to the business women of Argentina from the business women of Washington was passed.

Vaught, who is well known to many Washingtonians, writes to Gordon Leech, special service secretary of the Y. M. C. A., that he is now in the uniform of a lieutenant.

"This is a great country, and has much history attached to it," he says. "I am looking up some of my friends in the third army. Hope to be home in the fall of 1919."

The Flow of Meat

Two-thirds of the live stock in the United States has to be raised in the West.

One-half of the consumers of meat live in the East.

In other words, most of the live stock is one or two thousand miles distant from most of the people who need it in the form of food.

Fifty years ago, when live stock was raised close to every consuming center, the country butcher could handle the job after a fashion.

But the job got too big.

Now millions of animals have to be moved hundreds of miles to millions of people. Somewhere on the way they have to be turned into meat.

The packers solved the problem. They set up plants where the "live haul" and the "meat haul" were in the right balance. They eliminated waste. They built up distributing systems—refrigerator cars, refrigerating plants, branch houses. They saved time, money and meat everywhere. The stockraiser benefited in better markets and higher prices; the consumer, in better meat and lower prices.

As the country grew, the packers had to grow, or break down. Because of its present size and efficiency, Swift & Company is able to perform its part in this service at a fraction of a cent per pound profit.
